

Recruitment

Atlantic Leap recruits senior and mid-level management executives across a range of disciplines, including sales, marketing, business development and product development.

We leverage our fantastic network of contacts built over two decades working in digital media in New York, Silicon Valley and Europe. We find you the best candidates because we know them -- or know people who do. We're consummate networkers and we put our network to work for you.

When our network is not enough, we call upon our partners -- some of the best recruitment firms on the ground in London and elsewhere.

We work with you to localize your position description and candidate briefing, and when you are ready to make an offer we provide templates for offer letters and employment terms that are consistent with local regulation. We will even help with company creation.

Atlantic Leap gets you the best team on the ground quickly, so your company can have a smooth landing.